

Joe Camarota

Joseph Camarota, serves as Alpha-Omega's Chief Operating Officer. Joe's tenure with the company dates back to 1973, when as an undergraduate at Upsala College, he joined forces with Frank Seninsky. Upon graduation, Joe focused his full attention on developing Alpha's route operation, while also completing coursework necessary to later gain a master's degree from Seton Hall University in 1978. In 1983, Joe acquired a vested interest in Alpha-Omega and assumed the duties and role of Secretary/Treasurer.

Joe remains connected to the pulse of the industry, due to his close association through purchasing and consulting for a wide spectrum of operators, distributors, and manufacturers throughout the country. In addition, his complete grasp and understanding of our industry, combined with his thoroughness and analytical approach has constantly made him the source for evaluating routes, equipment procurement, and for the development, design, and testing of new games.

Arguably one of the industry's most knowledgeable veterans, Joe represents the driving force in guiding the operations of the Alpha-Omega companies.
